

Timber yard wood product knowledge

Designed to build skills and knowledge of timber and wood products, this programme is ideally suited for current and future employees working in timber yards and timber sales.

National Certificate in Wood Handling and Distribution, Level 2 (Timber yard wood product knowledge)

Trainees will learn the importance of:

- timber grading,
- timber preservation,
- handling and storage of timber; and,
- timber yard operations.

A second section, designed to complement your own induction plans, ensures thorough understanding of:

- health & safety in the workplace,
- safe work practices,
- the importance of good hydration and nutrition,
- procedures to shut down and isolate equipment; and,
- storage, handling and issuing of goods.

This programme is delivered over an 11 month period and is split into three modules.

Training comprises online learning, supported by onsite coaches.

The delivery of this programme is designed to give optimal value without the significant costs associated with being away from work.

Note: Price TBA

On completion of this programme your employees will receive a nationally recognised qualification and will be acknowledged with a National Certificate from the New Zealand Qualifications Authority (NZQA).

The role of Competenz as your Industry Training Organisation is to develop and manage qualifications to ensure our workplace is highly skilled.
